

Match the adverbs in List 1 with the adjectives in List 2 to form collocations.

LIST 1

bitterly strictly lavishly
eagerly generously widely heavily extensively

LIST 2

anticipated
available
damaged
disappointed
illustrated
influenced by limited
rewarded

Now use the collocations in the following texts.

1. The group's new tour was and tickets were supposed to be But in fact they were to two per person. I was that I couldn't get any tickets all.

2. A new biography of Princess Diana has just appeared. It seems to have been by interest in America. There are some new, rather personal photos, supplied by so-called friends of hers who have, no doubt, been for supplying personal details. Famous people often don't realise that their reputation can be by so-called friends. I'm glad I'm not famous.