

Collocations

adverb-adjective

highly deeply perfectly praised happy disappointed reasonable amusing ashamed serious

John was  when he failed to win the motorbike race.

Some people find his jokes .
Unfortunately, I don't.

Although my hotel was rather expensive, I decided that the prices were , considering the excellent service I received.

I found it hard to believe, but my sister was  when she told me she was going to join the navy.

His latest play has been  by the critics.

I am  of my behaviour last night and am writing to you to apologise.

I don't know why the baby started crying - he seemed  when I put him to bed.