CHECK THESE DIFFERENCES BETWEEN TELL & SAY:

"What did he tell you?" (What information did he give you?)	"What did he say?"
"Tell Paul I said hi!"	"Say 'hi' to Paul for me!"
"I want to tell you something about our teacher."	"I want to say something about our teacher."
"I told them that their new house was beautiful."	"I said that their new house is beautiful."
"Did he tell you how it happened?"	"Did he say how it happened?"
"I told him that I would meet him on Sunday."	"I said that I would meet him on Sunday."
"Where are they going? She didn't tell me." (She didn't give me the information)	"Where are they going? She didn't say."
"Can you tell me your name again?"	"Can you say your name again?"

SPEAK SPOKE SPOKEN SPEAKS SPEAKING	"WE SPEAK a LANGUAGE" "WE SPEAK to SOMEBODY (sb)" "WE SPEAK WITH SOMEBODY (sb)" "WE SPEAK ABOUT SOMETHING/SOMEONE." "SPEAK LOUDLY/ LOUDER/ SOFTER / QUIETLY/ !" "Speak quietly, this is a library." "Can I speak with you?" "I speak many languages." "How many languages do you speak?"
TALK TALKED TALKED /t/ TALKS TALKING	"WE TALK ABOUT SOMETHING/SOMEONE." "WE TALK to SOMEBODY" "WE TALK with SOMEONE" "We talk on the phone every week." "Can I talk with you?" "Can we talk about your brother?"

"SPEAK" and "TALK" are synonyms, and most of the time you can use either one of these words interchangeably, which means it doesn't matter, you can choose either. There are a few slight differences in the way that they're used: "SPEAK" tends to be a bit more formal. It also refers to more general topics than "TALK". Usually when you use "TALK" you might add it with a proposition "about".

"TALK about something."

So it's a little more specific.

"SPEAK" you can use quite generally.

For example: "Can I speak with you?"

Now, this is quite general, we're not being specific about what we want to speak about. But it also sounds a bit more formal, it sounds important.

"Can I talk with you?"

So this is a little more casual, a little informal, it doesn't sound as important. And if we add "about" we can add some more detail.

"Can we talk about your brother?"
