"There aren't many sea-otters left. So that was a wonderful thing to see," said Mrs. May.

"It's hard to get rid of toxic waste.

They could do a lot of harm to the wildlife," said Mrs. Honey.

"So first we'll clean the oil off.

Then we'll look after it for a week. It has to get strong again"

Mr. Johnson said "It can't fly, it has oil in its feathers."

"How do we get the oil off the seagull?"

The children were very tired.

Mr. Johnson came in. He was cross with Chip.

"But you have the best story to tell, it isn't every school trip that becomes famous," said Mrs. Honey.
