(3) the island nation with some energy self-sufficiency. PROVIDE Many families still have an area of bog, often passed down through generations, from which they can harvest enough fuel to see them through the year. It is an important part of Irish culture and
(4) identity – in his poem, Bogland, Seamus NATION Heaney describes it as "kind, black butter/Melting and(5) OPEN underfoot". The unmistakable smell of turf smoke in the air has long been a signal that you've left the city behind and arrived in rural Ireland.
