La Famiglia Restaurant

La Famiglia is the latest addition to Chatsworth Road's interesting selection of restaurants and cafés. Situated near London's Homerton underground station, and open from midday to midnight every day, the restaurant has a great location and offers convenient hours.

La Famiglia's real strength, however, is its fantastic food and wonderful head chef, Luigi Belli. The menu, which caters for lunch and dinner, provides both classic and modern Italian food. There are also plenty of daily specials from Luigi's home region of Emilia-Romagna in Italy. In particular his delicious pumpkin ravioli, a family recipe that he learnt as a child in Bologna! Although the pasta is excellent, there's a great range of meals, from seafood, chicken and meat dishes to options for vegetarians and vegans. One dish I recommend is Luigi's special vegan erbazzone – a wonderful vegetable pie. The kitchen is also very allergy friendly, and Luigi and his team are happy to make dishes to order for guests with special diets.

The experience doesn't stop at the food, however. La Famiglia also has a large dining room that is beautifully decorated, which, along with the amazing food, really makes you feel like you are stepping into the heart of Italy!

Maria's Favourite Dessert

Maria couldn't wait to visit Aunt Claire and Uncle Ben. She loved to spend time at their farm. She always had fun in the garden and going fishing with her uncle Ben, but her favourite thing to do was pick apples in the orchard. Sometimes Aunt Claire used the apples to make an apple pie – Maria's favourite dessert! When Maria arrived on Saturday morning, Uncle Ben gave her a hug and said, "Hurry up and put your things upstairs! We're going apple picking!" Maria smiled and ran to do as he said. They took some baskets down to the orchard and by early afternoon, they were full. "I'll take these to the house.

Why don't you go play?" said Uncle Ben.

Maria played outside until the sun started to go down. When she walked into the kitchen, she saw Uncle Ben peeling and slicing apples and sprinkling them with cinnamon and sugar. Aunt Claire was mixing flour, butter and sugar in a bowl. When Aunt Claire saw how excited Maria looked, she smiled.

"That's right," she said, "We're making your favourite dessert." Maria couldn't wait!
