

Worksheet A

You moved from the UK to Europe six months ago.	I _____ eat dinner early, about 6 p.m. Now I eat at around 8.30 p.m. I can't _____ driving on the right. It's very confusing! I _____ speaking a new language yet. It's quite difficult.
You have become independent and moved from home.	I _____ washing my own clothes for the first time. I _____ have all my meals prepared for me. My dad was a great cook! I _____ having to budget and plan with my money. My parents did it for me.
You have given up playing a sport due to a serious injury.	Until last year, I _____ train three times a week. I _____ being so inactive. Exercise was always an important part of my routine. I am slowly _____ doing other activities, like reading and cooking.
You have recently retired from work.	I _____ work Monday to Friday every week in the past. I _____ having more free time for myself, little by little. I really can't _____ not having work deadlines to meet. It feels very strange.

Worksheet B

You have recently left university and got your first job.	I _____ waking up early every day during the week, bit by bit. I _____ stay in bed longer before. I _____ commuting to work yet. It's so tiring!
You live with your sister and she's just had a baby.	I _____ go out clubbing with my sister every weekend. Now she stays in at home. I _____ being woken up by loud cries in the night. I can't _____ having less sleep than before. The baby is exhausting!
You have recently started a new diet.	I _____ be unhealthy in my eating habits for many years. I _____ eating less sugar and white bread than before. I'm definitely feeling better. I _____ doing so much exercise. I was inactive before.
You have recently started driving.	I _____ driving long distances every day now. I _____ travel on public transport more often in the past. I _____ spending money on car parks. They are so expensive!