JOSH

It was hard for Josh to concentrate on school work during April. That was the month when baseball season got underway, and all Josh could think about was his favourite team, the Lightning Bolts. Today in class he embarrassed himself when Mr. Rolle, his sixth-grade teacher asked for the term for the bush country in central Australia. Josh shot his hand into the air and called 'Outfield!' instead of 'Outback'. Even Mr. Rolle laughed at that one, and Josh's face turned red.

Now strolling home from school in the soft April air, Josh saw Diane, the new girl in his class. "Hi, Josh," she said in a friendly voice. "I want to invite you to attend my birthday party on Saturday. It will be at my house at 3:00. Can you come?"

This Bahamian sports legend made history when she ran herself and The Bahamas into the record books. Tonique is the first athlete to receive such an accolade. Although The Bahamas had previously won Olympic gold medals, Tonique is the first to have won an individual gold medal.

When she first heard that portion of Harrold Road would be renamed Tonique Williams- Darling Highway, MRs. Darling said she did not know 'how to feel.' Last summer Mario decided to walk to the beach near his home in Orange Creek, Cat Island. There were lots of trees loaded with purple, sweet, juicy grapes. Climbing up to the top of a tree, Mario stuffed his pockets with grapes.

Suddenly, he heard a loud ringing sound. Curious, he climbed down and followed it deep into the bushes. Deeper and deeper he walked until he realized he was lost.

Mario sat on a big flat rock and cried. How can I find my way home? He thought. When he opened his eyes, standing in front of him was a small Billy goat. The goat tilted his head toward the right and bleated, "Ma-a ma-a." Then he turned and slowly walked off in that direction. Mario sprang to his feet and followed the goat. It led him right back to the beach.
