

At the Chemist's

prescription	cough	can	antibiotics	allergic
doctor	sore	lozenges	hurts	fever

Chemist: Good morning, I help you?

Customer: Yes, I need something for a throat. It really . And I can't stop coughing.

Chemist: Do you have a headache, too?

Customer: No, and I don't have either.

Chemist: Are you to any medicine?

Customer: Not that I know of.

Chemist: Well, we have this syrup and these . They're both good but the syrup is more expensive.

Customer: Oh, well... I'll take the lozenges, then. How many do I take?

Chemist: Just one every four hour to six hours. Take it at least 30 minutes before meals.

Customer: Can I get some , too?

Chemist: I'm afraid you need a for that.

Customer: Ah.

Chemist: And you should see a if that continues.

Customer: Thanks. I know.

Chemist: Anything else?

Customer: No, thanks.

Chemist: That'll be £ 6.45 then, please.

Write similar dialogues. Use the example and your own ideas.