Listening Practice
Miracle on the Hudson

...too low terrain...50,40,30, 20

- Successful landing at Teterboro, runway 1-9.

-Multiple_____ , runways... two successful _____.

-We are simply mimicking what the computer already _____.

- A lot of toes were _____ in order to set this up for today.... and frankly I really don´t know what you gentlemen plan to gain by it.

- Can we get _____ now?

- _____.

- We´ve all _____ the computer simulations and now we are _____ actual Sims but I can´t quite _____ you still have not _____ the human factor.

-Human piloted simulation showed that could _____ to the airport.

-_____. These pilots were no behaving like human beings, like people who were experiencing this _____.

- Well, they may not be reacting like you _____.

- Immediately after the _____ they are turning back for the airport just as in the computer Sims, correct?

- That´s correct.

- They obviously knew the turn and exactly what heading to fly. They did not _____. They did not _____ the APU.

- They had all the same parameter as you faced.

- No one warned us. No one said you are going lose both engines at a lower altitude than _____, but be cool. Just make a _____ for LaGuardia like you are going back to pick up the milk. This was dual engine loss at _____ feet followed by an immediate water landing with _____ sous on board. No one has ever _____ for an incident like that. No one. And the Teterboro landing with its unrealistic bank angle...we were not the Thunderbirds up there. I´d like to know _____ the pilot practiced that maneuver before he_____ pulled it off. I´m not _____ the pilots. They are good pilots. But they´ve cleared been instructed to head for the airport immediately after the bird strike. You´ve allowed no time for analysis or decision-making. In these simulation you´ve taken all of the humanity _____. How much time did the pilots spend _____ for this event? ..for these simulations? You are looking for human error...then make it human.

-This wasn´t a _____. Was life and death. Sully´s right that´s worth _____.

-Please ask how many practice runs they had.

- _____   -_____?

- The pilot who landed at Teteboro had seventeen practice attempts before the simulation we just witnessed.

-You´re reaction decision time will be set at _____.

-Thirty five seconds is not enough time.

-We only had _____ so I will take it.   /   Upload the link...