

p. 98-99

1. Stop [commanding / criticising / relating] people all the time. You're not perfect either, you know.
2. I have a(n) [application / motivation / translation] on my tablet that lets me read books online.
3. The [preference / thought / solution] of seeing my friends again this summer makes me happy.
4. Do you remember Ian Sinclair from school? I was [browsing / criticising / basically] on social media and I saw that he lives in Japan now.
5. Can you explain to us [automatically / pros and cons / in simple terms] how people program computers?
6. This is a French poem [inspired / based / related] by the French Revolution.
7. This computer program [basically / instantly / dreadfully] recognises your voice.
8. The meeting is [scheduled / translated / browsed] for Friday afternoon.
9. Ellen has a [solution / growth / preference] for leather jackets.
10. My sister returned home after spending a [decade / command / task] abroad.
11. We bought all the [appliances / applications / apps] in our kitchen from here, except for the fridge.
12. Jeff is interested in everything [related / based / inspired] to art and loves drawing, painting and going to exhibitions.

13. The [growth / installation / schedule] of companies selling products online has led to shops in the high street making smaller profits.
14. Angela asked me to [inspire / translate / transform] this letter for her.
15. The officer gave the [appliance / command / thought] and all the soldiers returned to the camp.
16. Failing the exam was a [consequence / progress / failure] of not studying.
17. When Adam [took up / took into / took over], our sales increased.
18. We'll call the electrician to [inspire / repair / control] the damage caused by the storm.
19. I am always assigned [dreadful / frightened / repetitive] tasks to do at work.
20. Be careful! You might [spill / progress / repair] the coffee on your coat!