Read the text (Student's book, page 6) and write each word in red next to its definition below.

1. A period of study with a tutor involving one student or a small group.
2. A judgement, expressed as a number or letter, about the quality of a piece of work.
3. Work in class.
4. To take an exam again after failing it.
5. A formal talk on a specific subject given to a group of people (usually students) by a professional.
6. To get a degree at university.
7. A group of classes on a particular subject.
8. The qualification given to students at the end of a course of studies.
9. A piece of work given to students to complete alone or in groups.
10. Information or explanations written on students' personal notebooks/binders.
11. A fixed period of time (three/four months, usually).
12. Not to pass an exam.
13. A teacher who helps you in or outside school.
14. An advanced university degree.
15. A university student who has not yet got his/her first degree.
16. The system in which the quality of a student's work is judged by many pieces of work along the year instead of a single final exam at the end.
17. To study something you have already learned.

Most of the students I've met so far are undergraduates. But there are others who've already graduated and are studying to get a second degree or a master's. On my course I have about 12 hours of lectures a week and I attend a couple of tutorials, too. Throughout the term, there's continuous assessment of our coursework and assignments – my tutor gives me a grade or mark for each piece of work. There are usually exams too, so, of course, I need to keep my notes up-to-date and revise. In some cases, if you fail an exam, you can resit it. But don't worry, that won't happen to me – I'm sure I'll pass!! What about you? How is life going at your university?
