

During electrolysis, _____ charged ions move to the negative electrode, and _____ charged ions move to the positive electrode.

At the negative electrode, positively charged ions _____ electrons (_____) and at the positive electrode, negatively charged ions _____ electrons (_____).