Making Predictions

A prediction is an educated guess you make, using pictures, what you read and what you know to help you figure out what will happen next.

We make predictions before, during and after reading.

1. Before Reading – We look at the title and illustration or pictures on the cover of a book.
2. During Reading – We stop and predict what will happen next.
3. After Reading – We confirm our prediction. If our prediction was wrong, we think about what happened.
