In the USA, around 200 million <sup>1</sup>illegal (legal) music downloads take place every year, in spite of laws to stop them. In the UK, the figure is about 100 million – the second highest in the world. The music industry complains that these downloads are <sup>2</sup> (fair) to artists because they stop them earning money from their work. It is <sup>3</sup> (possible) to know exactly how much money artists and record companies are losing because many people who download illegally do not have any money to spend. However, one thing is <sup>4</sup> (certain): overall, the industry is earning a lot less than it earned a few years ago.

Record companies pay for adverts telling people that downloading music without paying is as <sup>5</sup> (acceptable) and <sup>6</sup> (honest) as stealing from a shop. If you're a <sup>7</sup> (loyal) fan, they suggest you buy a <sup>8</sup> (legal) version of a song or album from iTunes or another website. But the adverts are <sup>9</sup> (likely) to work because people see the music industry as rich and powerful compared to them. Most do not see sharing music online as <sup>10</sup> (responsible).

In fact, the number of illegal downloads is now going down, but that's not because of the warnings. For people who are <sup>11</sup> (patient) to hear the latest tracks, streaming services like Spotify now offer a simple and <sup>12</sup> (safe) way to enjoy them without the need for downloads at all.
