Most people are (1) at interpreting basic nonverbal signals. However, other signals are not obvious, so it takes work to (2) this skill and to develop greater (3), or accuracy, in understanding what others are truly telling us. Some signals are very (4), or difficult to notice, and may (5) from person to person. It can be difficult to know whether to place (6) on a person's facial expressions or body language. To better control your own nonverbal communication, you can (7) in your mind how you would like to appear to others. Also, you can study someone you like and (8) their actions.
