

Defining and non-defining relative clauses

That can be used for people or things in defining relative clauses. However, it cannot be used as a replacement for where or when with the meaning “in which,” “at which,” or “during which.”

Many of the people that live in Paris leave the city in August to vacation in other places.

A statue of ducks that can be found in Boston is a popular tourist attraction for children.

Pamplona is that city in Spain where the bulls run through the streets during a summer festival.

Summer is the season when New York is crowded with tourists from all over the world.

That cannot be used in non-defining relative clauses. Who, which, or where are used instead.

Cairo, which has fascinated Europeans for ages, draws countless tourists each year.

Our tour guide, who knew a great deal about souvenirs in Otavalo, helped us buy some beautiful presents for our friends.

Complete the defining relative clauses with that, who, when, or where.
