My food festival blog

Hello, I'm Mikela from Malta. Malta is a small country but there are lots of food festivals. I go to some of them. Here are three of my favourites.

The first food festival of the year is the citrus festival in January. Farmers pick oranges and lemons in winter, so there's lots of fresh fruit to eat. At the festival, there's a cookery class if you want to learn a recipe for orange biscuits or make lemon cake.

There's an orange juggling competition too. I can't juggle, but it's fun to try! Or you can just eat the fruit, it's really delicious!

Every April, there's a strawberry festival in my village. There are some sweet foods like strawberry cakes and smoothies, and there are savoury foods too. There's some pasta with strawberry sauce! Or how about some strawberry sushi? It's delicious. I promise!

In October, there's a chocolate festival. People make sculptures with chocolate. There are chocolate trains, houses and animals. They're incredible!

If you like art, you can do a painting with chocolate. And there's a tattoo artist who can paint a chocolate tattoo on your body!

Great blog, Mikela! In my town, there's a chili festival in summer.
