

16 Bungee!

Before you read

1. Would you like to try bungee jumping? Why or why not?
2. Why do you think bungee jumping is so popular?
3. Are there any other dangerous sports that you would like to try? What are they?

Reading

- 1 In June 2001 Dave Barlia jumped out of a helicopter in the sky above the Mohave Desert, USA. He fell more than 1,800 metres before the rope tied to his ankles pulled him up again. It was the longest bungee jump in the world!
- 2 Thirteen years before Barlia's amazing jump, Henry Van Asch and A. J. Hackett invented the special rubber rope that made bungee jumping possible. In 1988 the two men started the world's first bungee jumping business in the small New Zealand town of Queenstown. Some of the locals didn't think the new business would last very long. But they were wrong. Soon thousands of visitors were coming to Queenstown and paying to bungee jump off the Kawarau Bridge, 43 metres above the river below. The bungee jumping craze had begun.
- 3 Bungee jumping is now more popular than ever. Today you can go bungee jumping in many countries around the world. But why would anyone want to jump off a bridge high above the ground with nothing to save them but a huge rubber band? Some people do it just for the excitement. Others do it because they want to get over their fear of heights. And others just want to be able to say, 'Yeah, I did it!'
