

Science Quiz

Name: _____

Date: _____

Read the questions and choose true if the answer is true, choose false if the answer is false.

1. Air is matter.
2. Warm air is able to hold less water vapor than cool air.
3. The process of water changing from a liquid to a solid or gas over and over is called precipitation.
4. The point in which water vapor condenses is called dew point.
5. Dew is not a form of precipitation.

Matching: Choose the correct letter of the correct answer in the blank.

- | | |
|--|------------------|
| _____6. Water vapor in the air. | A. precipitation |
| _____7. Any form of water that falls from the clouds. | B. humidity |
| _____8. The process of water vapor turning back into water. | C. Sleet |
| _____9. Tiny crystals of ice that are made up of frozen water vapor. | D. Frost |
| _____10. Particles of ice which fall from the sky during a thunderstorm. | E. condensation |