

The survey compares different types of leisure activities that boys and girls participate in.

Computer games and outdoor sports are highly popular among boys. More than one-third play computer games, one-quarter play basketball, and 17% play soccer. One-tenth of them like to do skate-boarding. However, the boys' reading habit is very poor, as only 2% of them chose reading as their preferred leisure activity.

Playing computer games is not as popular among girls as it is among boys, since only 16% of the girls reported computer games as their favorite leisure activity. The most popular pursuits among girls are dancing (27% love to dance), and reading (slightly more than one-fifth are active readers). Regarding outdoor activities, 11% of the girls take part in gymnastics and 15% play netballs in their leisure time. Listening to music is the only activity that is enjoyed by an equal percentage of boys and girls (10%).

Overall, boys prefer computer games and outdoor sports while girls mostly participate in activities like dancing and reading in their leisure time.
