Is this the end of cinemas?

Why do we go to the cinema? There are a lot of good reasons: they're quite cheap as a form of entertainment, the technology is better than the average TV in your own home, and many people like watching something with their friends. However, cinemas don't often make much money from the films they show. They make their money from the food and drink you buy. Some have special offers. For example, you can watch a film and have dinner at the same time, so after the film, you don't have to go to a restaurant.

Nowadays, there are so many TV programmes – and many of them are really good, too. This means that cinemas have a lot of competition because people prefer to stay in their own homes and watch TV instead of going out to the cinema – and we've never had so many different types of films to watch. Some people say that big Hollywood films are all the same now and that TV has more interesting films and more choice. This is because they make a lot more films in different places now, and not only at the Hollywood studios, you can see films from European countries, from China, India, and many other countries.

It's true that the films you can watch now on TV are often better than the films that they show at the cinema, and you don't even have to leave your own sofa! TVs are getting bigger and bigger, so you can feel like you are at the cinema. Some people say that in the future, cinemas are going to change and become meeting places for friends and family with other forms of entertainment. In fact, sometimes you can watch a play or a ballet at the cinema at the same time that the actors and dancers are performing them in the theatre. But many people think cinemas are going to die and TV is going to become more and more popular. What do you think?

1. Cinemas have better technology than TVs _____
2. Cinemas do not always make most of their money from ticket sales _____
3. You can do more in a cinema than watch a film _____
4. People watch too much TV _____
5. The type of films we can watch these days is changing _____
6. Film studios from other countries are more important than Hollywood _____
7. Films on TV can sometimes be better than films at the cinema _____
8. Cinemas are going to have shops in the future _____
9. Films are not the only thing you can see at the cinema _____
10. Most people think TV is going to become less popular _____

In your notebook, write your opinion about the reading.

Do you think this is the end of cinemas? What do you prefer, stay at home, or go out to the cinema?
