HOW TO MAKE AN ANIMATED MOVIE

Have you ever wondered how your favorite animation was made?
Animated movies can take years to make. There are a lot of different things that need to be done before you can see the finished movie.

A writer writes a script and a designer draws a storyboard. A storyboard is like a large comic strip and shows the story to everyone working on the movie.
Before the animation is produced, the voices for the movie are recorded. Today, famous actors are used for the voices of the characters. The recordings are added to the animation later.
After the voices are recorded, the artists start making the animation. In the past, each frame of the story was hand-painted onto a thin sheet of plastic. There was a lot of painting to do- cartoons had about 24 frames every second.
Today animation is made on a computer. Objects can be moved around, from one frame to the next, so the artists don't have to paint as many pictures. When the animation is finished, the voices are added. A composer composes music for the movie, the music is added, and the movie is complete!
