MONARCH MIGRATION

They have four wings.

MONARCH BUTTERFLIES

Monarch butterflies have bright orange wings with black and white spots. They are born as tiny eggs, then they grow into caterpillars. The caterpillars make a chrysalis and then they turn into butterflies!

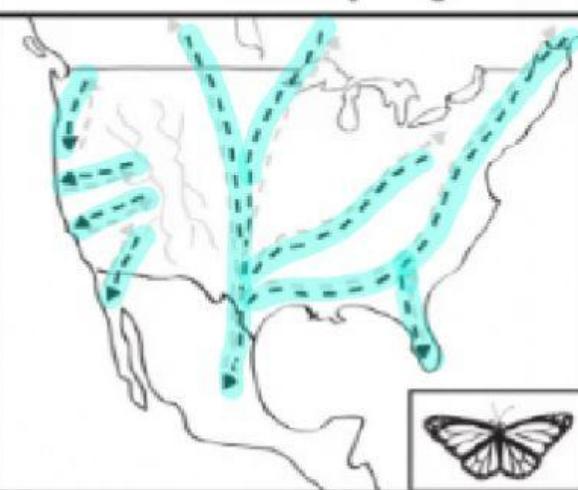

MIGRATION

Monarch butterflies migrate a long way to find a warm place to live in the winter. Along the way, they fly over mountains, forests, and even across big rivers. Once they reach the south, they rest and stay there until it's warm again. When spring comes, they fly back to their homes in the north. Monarch butterflies make this journey every year!

chrysalis: a hard shell that keeps the caterpillar safe while it changes to a butterfly migrate: travel from one place to another for a season
