

The New Class

Emebet is happy. Today is the first day of classes. This is her first class at Carlos Rosario in Washington, DC. Classes are different this year. They are not in the building because of the Coronavirus. The classes are virtual, using a computer. All the teachers and students are at home. They are on the computer for the class.

Emebet is excited to learn English, but she is nervous about the virtual classes. Using the computer is difficult for her. She connects to the Zoom class and sees her new teacher and the other students. The teacher is very happy and helpful. The students are friendly. Some students are nervous about using the computer, too. Now she feels better about the class. She is ready to learn English!
