TOEFL GRAMMAR PRACTICE 54

Exercises on Pronouns

1. The penguin chicks (A) cannot go into the water to get themselves (B) own food until they have waterproof coats (C) of feathers like their parents (D).

2. Balloons rise (A) into the air because they contain (B) a gas who is less dense (C), or lighter, than air (D).

3. The narwhal is the only animal (A) in the world that has (B) a tusk on only one side (C) of it body (D).

4. Silver is too soft to use by itself (A), so it is mixed (B) with another metal (C) to make themselves harder (D).

5. Most slugs and snails breathe (A) using a lung which opens (B) through a small hole in the side (C) of its bodies (D).

6. Every fuel has their (A) own particular temperature (B) at which (C) it begins (D) to bum.

7. Harriet Tubman, she an escaped slave (A), led more than three hundred slaves (B) to freedom (C) on the Underground Railroad (D).

8. Dreaming, like all (A) other mental processes, it is (B) a product of the brain (C) and its activity (D).

9. Snails produce a colorless (A), sticky discharge that forms (B) a protective carpet under them (C) as their travel along (D).

10. George Washington Carver won international (A) fame for his agricultural research (B), who involved extensive work (C) with peanuts (D).

11. Enzymes enable the smallest virus (A) to enter cells (B) in order to (C) reproduce themselves (D).

12. Jack London, whom was known (A) for his stories of Alaska (B), lived there (C) during the Klondike gold rush (D).

LIVEWORKSHEETS