Writing about Wars

Original Paragraph: "The devastating effects of war are far-reaching. It causes immense loss of life and property, and it also leaves lasting scars on the survivors, both physically and emotionally. War disrupts entire societies, uprooting families from their homes and destroying the social fabric that holds communities together. Apparent goals of peace and stability, war often perpetuates a cycle of violence and vengeance, further exacerbating the conflicts and deepening divisions among nations. The need for diplomacy and peaceful resolutions becomes increasingly crucial in order to break free from the destructive grip of war."

Include the following connectors in the previous paragraph

- Consequently
- Not only… but also
- Despite the
- Moreover

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Paragraph 1: "War, with its horrifying consequences, brings about immense suffering and devastation. It engulfs nations in a whirlpool of violence, leading to the loss of countless lives and the destruction of valuable infrastructure. In addition, we must not overlook the psychological impact of war as it leaves individuals scarred and traumatized. Therefore, it is imperative that global leaders prioritize peaceful resolutions and diplomatic negotiations in order to steer clear of the catastrophic consequences of armed conflict."

Paraphrasing suggestions:

- Connector: Instead of using "In addition," students can use "Furthermore," "Moreover," or "Additionally."
- Grammar point: Encourage students to rephrase the active voice construction: "We must not overlook the psychological impact of war." into an active voice structure, for example….

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Paragraph 2: "War has far-reaching effects on societies and communities, tearing them apart and leaving behind a trail of devastation. Families are forcibly displaced from their homes, communities are fractured, and social bonds are shattered. Furthermore, war breeds hostility and vengeance, perpetuating a vicious cycle of violence. In order to forge a path towards reconciliation, nations must prioritize diplomacy and seek peaceful solutions, despite the complex challenges that lie ahead."

Paraphrasing suggestions:

- Connector: Instead of using "Furthermore," students can use "Additionally," "Moreover," or "In addition."
- Grammar point: Encourage students to use a conditional sentence structure (which one?) to express the consequences of war, for example……

LIVEWORKSHEETS

Paragraph 3: "The impact of war is not limited to the battlefield; it reaches deep into the hearts and minds of individuals. The physical and emotional toll of conflict is immeasurable, as it inflicts wounds that may never fully heal. Moreover, war disrupts the fabric of society, dismantling social structures and tearing apart communities. Hence, the urgent need for nations to pursue dialogue and mediation, fostering an environment conducive to peaceful resolutions and the prevention of further bloodshed."

Paraphrasing suggestions:

- Connector: Instead of using "Moreover," students can use "Furthermore," "Additionally," or "In addition."
- Grammar point: Encourage students to rephrase the passive voice construction ("may never fully heal") into an active voice structure, for example:

LIVEWORKSHEETS