

Quotation marks always need to go at the start and end of what is being said. There should always be punctuation before the final set of quotation marks; this could be a comma, an exclamation point or a question mark:

"Are you coming to the pictures?" asked John.

"I love that movie!" Lisa exclaimed.

"Let's have chicken for dinner," Jeremy said.

Select the correct punctuation for each sentence:

1. Are you coming to the movie with us Tom asked
2. Brad Pitt is so hot Sarah said
3. Yes we are she insisted
4. That's nonsense Ricky shouted
5. Clean your room mom demanded
6. Don't do that I told him
7. Give us some candy the kids demanded
8. What a beautiful sunset José exclaimed
9. Be careful not to spill the coffee aunt Gloria said
10. Let's go fishing grandpa said
