

- A balance measures the mass of an object or substance.

- A measuring cylinder measures volume. _____
- A scale tells you the amount of matter something contains.

- A measuring cup tells you the amount of space a substance occupies. _____