1. Reading Comprehension

Last month Ms Frizzle and her class went on a trip to the Natural Science Museum. They met at school at quarter past eight and they got on a bus. The weather was fantastic, the sun was shining and it was warm. The children were excited because they loved going on school trips and because Ms Frizzle was very creative and always organized interesting activities at museums. Unluckily, Ms Frizzle wasn't very cheerful that day, she had two problems: she had a toothache and she couldn't find her glasses. Anyway, at quarter past eight, everybody was on the bus and they left. Everything was all right while they were travelling. Ms Frizzle wasn't driving, she was sitting at the front seat, talking to the driver. She was telling him about all the things that they could see at the museum. While she was talking, she had one hand on her cheek to relieve the pain in her tooth. She didn't look very happy. Suddenly, the driver said: "Oh, no!" and the bus stopped. All of them were very surprised and wanted to know what was happening. The driver got off the bus and gave a look at the wheels. Apparently, something was wrong with one of them because the driver got on the bus again and said the bus couldn't go on. All the children started to complain and talk, but Ms Frizzle asked for silence. She said: "Ok, children. Our project starts here and now. We are ten blocks from the museum and we will arrive there on foot! After saying this, she took off her shoes because they were uncomfortable and put on a pair of trainers she had in her enormous bag. She didn't look worried about her toothache any more. Then , they started to walk.
