

friday, 7 july 2023

Sophie was a passionate _____ who had been working tirelessly to _____ the victims of a recent _____ in her town. She had been putting up posters and organizing peaceful protests for weeks, but things took a turn when an _____ was made against her by one of the local authorities. The _____ was that Sophie had _____ someone during one of her protests.

Sophie was shocked and outraged. She knew that the allegation was false and _____ that it was a ploy to _____ her campaign. Despite her concerns, she refused to be intimidated and continued with her efforts. However, the situation soon got _____ as more allegations were made against her, including _____ obstruction of traffic and intimidation of pedestrians.

accusation, activist, allegation, alleged, assault,
bravery, campaigner,
chop sth down,
come up with sth,
commemorate, concerned,
confrontation, contractor, excessive, footpath,
get blown out of proportion,
halt, horn, intimidation, laugh sth off, laughable, leafy,
massacre, obstruct, obstruction, overreaction, pavement, put sth in,
report sth to the police,
request

Sophie was frustrated and felt helpless as she watched her reputation being tarnished. She decided to confront the authorities and _____ the matter to _____. Fortunately, the police investigated the allegations and found no evidence to support them. They _____ the accusations as _____ and cleared Sophie of any wrongdoing.

Sophie was relieved but also angry at the same time. She couldn't believe that someone would go to such lengths to _____ her efforts. However, she didn't let this setback defeat her. She put in even more effort and organized a massive protest that drew attention from all over the country. Her campaign became a symbol of hope and resilience, and she emerged as a true campaigner who stood up for what she believed in.