C and g

In the cold winter, with snow on the ground,
A cup of hot cocoa, a warm coat I found.
Cuddled up by the fire, feeling so snug,
The cost of joy, just a marshmallow mug.

A gentle giant, with a heart so kind,
A gift to the world, their love aligned.
In the zoo, the giraffe stands tall,
Bringing joy to one and all.

Clever class clown wears a crown,
Can cartwheel while copying a cop.
Cope with a cup of curd and a clip,
Creating chaos, causing classmates to cry.

Curly-haired cab driver catches crabs,
With a cold comb and a cuff on his wrist.
Careful on the curb, he cruises the city,
Collecting cries of delight as he persists.

The center of the circle is where I'll be,
Circling and cycling, wild and free.
Celebrating centimeters, cinema and more,
In a cyclone of joy, my spirit will soar.

The giant tiger, ginormous and grand,
Gulped a gallon of grape juice, glass in hand.
With gentle gestures, the vegetarian guide,
Helped the gentle giant find his stride.

Gentle souls, with hearts so pure,
Vegetarian choices, we embrace for sure.
Giant strides, we'll make a change,
Give love and kindness, in our range.

Gin and tonic, a classic sip,
Gill in the water, take a dip.
Energy surges, foggy and bright,
Orange tiger comes at night.

In the garden, under the sun,
Grown from seeds, a grapevine run.
A group of guests, enjoying the view,
Guessing the flavor, sweet and true.
