

Karen is at home with her flatmates, when her phone rings. Cross out the adjectives and add their adverb forms to the conversation.

Karen: Hello? Shula? I'm sorry, I can't hear you. My friends are talking so ...loudly... (~~loud~~). Just a moment. Mike, Joss! Shut up! That's better. They're talking (quiet) now. Yes, I'm OK, but I've got a problem. I bought a new computer yesterday. I think I've fixed it (correct), but it doesn't work very well. What? You'll come round? That's very kind, but you know it's raining (heavy)? OK. Thanks. See you later.

Karen: (Ten minutes later) Thanks for coming, Shula. I fixed the computer and the printer (careful), but something is wrong. Do you think there's a problem with the hard drive?

Shula: I'll have a look. Everything looks OK. I'm going to try to print something.

Karen: It's printing very (noisy), isn't it?

Shula: Yes, but it's only because the cable is in the wrong place. Don't worry. Can you lift the keyboard (slow), please? I'll hold the mouse.

Karen: The noise has stopped. How did you do it so (easy)?

Shula: Because I'm fantastic! Can you make me a cup of tea now, please?
