Read the following passage and choose the correct answers:

Reading books benefits your physical, mental and spiritual health and those benefits can last a lifetime.

Reducing stress and depression

Reading forces us to be still, which calms us and takes us out of 'action mode'. When our bodies are at rest, physiological changes take place – our breathing and heart rate slow down, and our blood pressure lowers. In this sense, reading can be seen as a meditative activity. Ultimately, getting lost in a good book is a great way to reduce stress and increase our overall well-being.

Stress management

When you start reading for enjoyment, your focus is shifted away from things that may be causing you stress. This is true of a lot of leisure activities, but becoming involved in a plot or narrative and absorbing new information requires a high level of concentration. This makes reading one of the most effective activities for stress relief. One study found that reading can reduce stress levels by as much as 68%. This was more effective than other popular hobbies including going for a walk, listening to music, and playing video games. In February 2021, a survey uncovered that 43% of the UK population used reading to manage their personal stress over the third national COVID-19 lockdown.

Exercise for the brain

Just as physical exercise improves your body's strength and agility, getting into the habit of reading improves your brain function.

As you read, you are constantly absorbing new information, from plots and characters in fictional narratives to novel ideas and facts in non-fiction. This brings the ability to rewire and form new connections and communications between different areas of the brain. Creative hobbies, like painting or playing music, have a similar impact on the brain.

Reading helps your brain process information both visually and verbally. Reading enhances imagination, creativity, and visual abilities.

36. What is the main idea of the passage?
- A. Reading is one of the hobbies
B. Reading during the Covid-19 lockdown
C. How people's health can benefit from reading
D. What reading can do to patients.
37. How does our body change when we concentrate on reading?

B. Both heart rate and breathing speed up
C. Both heart rate and breathing slow down
D. Heart rate is slower and breathing is faster.
38. What does the word 'ultimately' mean?
- A. surprisingly
B. rarely
C. finally
D. originally
39. The word 'shifted' is similar in meaning to ____.
- A. developed
B. reduced
C. moved
D. removed
40. Why is reading considered an effective activity for stress relief?
- A. Reading helps tell a story
B. Reading helps absorb information
C. Reading helps creating a plot
D. Reading helps concentrating better
41. Compared to other popular hobbies, how effective is reading?
- A. a little less effective
B. more effective
C. as effective
D. 68% more effective
42. Why does the writer mention the third national COVID-19 lockdown?
- A. to compare the stress of reading with that of Covid-19

Choose the correct answers to complete the passage:

One the main reasons that panda populations have declined is habitat destruction. As the human population in China continues to (45)_____, pandas' habitat gets taken (46)_____ by development, pushing them into smaller and (47)_____ livable areas. Habitat destruction also leads to food (48)_____. Pandas feed on several varieties of bamboo that bloom at different times of the year. If one type of bamboo is destroyed by development, it can leave the pandas with nothing to eat during the time it normally blooms, increasing the risk of starvation.

To (49)_____ this issue, the Chinese government has actively worked to restore and protect bamboo habitat, and these measures have shown positive results. State Forestry Administration surveys have concluded that the panda population has increased since the Chinese government's actions, and in 2016, the IUCN upgraded the giant panda's (50)_____ from Endangered to Vulnerable.
