English Grammar

Choose the correct option

I didn't see anybody behind me, but I knew that I _____. It was my instinct, I could feel it. I saw that a bus _____ at the bus stop at the end of the street. I ran and _____ it. I didn't ask the bus driver where _____ because it didn't matter, I just wanted to _____ as fast as possible.

I knew I was in danger. I had put _____ in a dangerous situation the day _____ I had helped a woman in a bar. A man _____ her when I hit him in the face. When he fell unconscious to the floor, I recognised the tattoos on his arms and neck. He was a member of one of the worst gangs in Los Angeles. The woman looked at me with panic in her eyes. "Go away, please, before his friends _____," she said. "If they see you, they _____ you. "Do you think he'll remember my face?" I asked her. "I have _____ doubt," she answered.

Now I was in a bus wondering why I had to punch that man in the face. If I hadn't done that stupid thing, nothing _____ to me. I got off the bus after a few blocks and I started walking. I _____ do something, but what? That dangerous man had seen my face. "Of course," I thought, "my face!". If that man had seen my face, I just needed a different face, a face that he could not recognise!

Three days later I had plastic surgery and I got a new face. That was a few months ago, and I _____ the man I attacked a few times since then, and he has no idea who I am. And the best part is that I _____ like my face, and now I love it!

LIVEWORKSHEETS