Read and complete

This is the story of a farmer / teacher, his wife called Beauty, his son / dog called Goodwill and an old donkey called Jackson / Alex.

One day the farmer and the Goodwill / donkey go to the market. Jackson is tired / happy, stops and doesn't move. The farmer gets tired / angry and wants to hit Jackson. But Goodwill comes and whispers thank you / please in the donkey's ear. Jackson stands up and the father is sad / surprised.

The secret is that little things like 'thank you' and 'please' can make a big difference. Finally they go the market and sell all the vegetables / books.

At the end of the day, the farmer and Goodwill go home. The father / mother is at home. Before they have supper, the farmer goes to Jackson and whispers in his ear 'please, Jackson' / 'thank you, Jackson'
