Dogs on Surfboards

Most dogs love playing ball games and going jogging with their families. But these activities aren't adventorous enough for all dogs. In San Diego, USA, people take their dogs surfing.

Dogs are as happy as people on surfboards. They love riding and leaping over the ocean. Some dogs are better surfers than others and they can have lessons before they start. The SoCal Surf Dogs Club teaches surfing to dogs of all ages and sizes. They start the lessons on the beach to introduce them to the surfboards. Then, they move into the vater. Some dogs are too frightened to go into the ocean at first, so the coaches and owners introduce them slowly to the water. The dogs wear special safety jackets to keep them safe and the surfboards can't hurt them because they're very light. With the help of their owners and coaches, they soon become confident surfers.

Every year, there is a surfing competition in San Diego to find the most talented dog. Some of the best surfing dogs in the country enter the competition.
