

Passive voice- unreal conditional sentences.

Rewrite the underlined clauses into passive voice (omit the by phrase)

Example: If she knew programming, she would create amazing software.

If she knew programming, amazing software would be created.

1. If they developed this app, it would revolutionize the market.
If they developed this app, this app would revolutionize the market.
2. If the network crashes, IT support would fix it.
If the network crashes, IT support would fix it.
3. If the password were forgotten, it would require a reset.
If the password were forgotten, a reset would be required.
4. If she knew how to code, she would create innovative applications.
If she knew how to code, innovative applications would be created.
5. If scientists developed time travel technology, it would change the course of history.
If scientists developed time travel technology, the course of history would be changed.
6. If engineers invented flying cars, commuting would be revolutionized.
If engineers invented flying cars, commuting would be revolutionized.
7. If researchers discovered a cure for aging, it would lead to profound societal changes.
If researchers discovered a cure for aging, profound societal changes would be led.
8. If programmers designed an AI capable of human emotions, it would raise ethical questions.
If programmers designed an AI capable of human emotions, ethical questions would be raised.
9. If companies created affordable renewable energy solutions, the world's carbon footprint would decrease.
If companies created affordable renewable energy solutions, the world's carbon footprint would decrease.
10. If developers built a virtual reality environment, learning methods would evolve.
If developers built a virtual reality environment, learning methods would evolve.
11. If innovators had introduced brain-computer interfaces, new possibilities would have emerged.
If innovators had introduced brain-computer interfaces, new possibilities would have emerged.
12. If researchers designed nanobots to target diseases, medical treatments would become highly precise.
If researchers designed nanobots to target diseases, medical treatments would become highly precise.
13. If bioengineers had developed artificial organs, organ transplantation would have been transformed.
If bioengineers had developed artificial organs, organ transplantation would have been transformed.
14. If software engineers programmed AI tutors for personalized education, they would enhance learning experience.
If software engineers programmed AI tutors for personalized education, learning experience would be enhanced.