

Daniel Defoe Robinson Crusoe (1719)

Read the text and choose the correct alternative

The narrator tells us that Robinson Crusoe was born in Nottingham York in the year. 1644 1632. His father was German English , he settled in York first and later in Bremen Hull.

His real name was Robinson Kreutznaer turned into Crusoe because of the English corruption of words Robinson's mother was English. He had two brothers sisters. One died during a battle an epidemic.

Robinson received a bad good education. He studied at home and at school. His father wanted him to become a priest lawyer, but he only wanted to go to sea a desert island.

In the last paragraph the narrator tells us that his father mother did not approve of his interests because he thought that if Robinson Crusoe stayed at home he would have the chance to get married improve his social condition. He also thought that the upper middle class was the best worst of all social classes.

The narrator is a third first person narrator.

The style is realistic abstract.

The middle class man is exalted criticised.

