

Add the Prepositions to Complete the Story

A preposition connects a noun or pronoun to another word in the sentence, showing the relationship between them. Prepositions usually answer the questions where? or when?, telling about a person or object's location in either time or space. Use one of the prepositions from the word bank in each of the blanks in the story below. Prepositions can be used more than once, as long as they make sense where you place them in the story.

Scott's allergies were really severe. This season, he was having a lot of trouble _____ them. He kept on sneezing _____ the tissue he carried _____ his hand wherever he went. One day he had to sneeze three times while he was walking _____ the street! His mom decided to take him _____ the doctor. Dr. Anderson asked Scott to sit _____ the chair _____ the table. _____ the appointment, Dr. Anderson talked to Scott and examined him. He tested the skin _____ Scott's arm to see if it changed color. He made one row of pin pricks, then he made another row _____ the first row. _____ the two rows, he touched a Q-tip _____ several places. _____ the bottom of the second row, he looked closely for a reaction _____ Scott's skin. After he was done, he told Scott and his mom that Scott was allergic to a flowering tree that was common _____ their area. He gave Scott a prescription medication to try. Scott used to eat his lunch while sitting outside _____ the tree. It was just right for him to lean against. However, he realized he could not do that anymore. Ever since he saw Dr. Anderson, Scott spent more time _____ his house until the tree was not flowering. His allergies did not bother him much. Fortunately, there was enough time _____ the tree's flowering cycles when Scott could enjoy some time outside without sneezing.