Whodunit?

One afternoon, Mrs. Taylor heard a loud crash of broken glass in the living room. She ran into the room and found her beautiful blue vase broken. She was furious!

Tim's questions

1. - How was the vase broken?
2. - Who could have done it?
3. - What did Jason say?
4. - What did Jim say?
5. - What did Jeremy say?
6. - What are the clues?

Anne's answers

- Jason said that Jim didn't kick the ball and he was sure that Jeremy did.
- One boy lied in both statements and two boys told the truth.
- Jeremy swore that Jim was the one who broke the vase. He said he knew this for sure because Jason definitely wasn't playing soccer in the house.
- It was smashed into pieces. Among the broken pieces she saw a soccer ball.
- One of Mrs. Taylor's children: Jason, Jim or Jeremy.
- Jim was certain that Jeremy was innocent. He also mentioned he hadn't done his homework.
