

1 Read the conversations and choose the correct alternatives.

- A: Hey, listen to this. According to this travel article, there's a hotel in Las Vegas where you can take a slide through an aquarium of sharks!
- B: Are you <sup>1</sup>quite/bitterly sure that's a good idea?
- A: Yeah, it sounds <sup>2</sup>pretty/very amazing, doesn't it?
- B: Umm, to be <sup>3</sup>completely/barely honest, I think it sounds <sup>4</sup>absolutely/nearly terrifying.
- A: I guess we have <sup>5</sup>entirely/virtually different tastes in what we think is fun, then!

- A: I got <sup>6</sup>somewhat/essentially emotional at the play I saw last night.
- B: Really? What was it about?
- A: The power of friendship. It was <sup>7</sup>totally/deeply unique, because it was performed in sign language.
- B: That must have been <sup>8</sup>completely/fairly difficult to understand.
- A: Actually, it was fine. The actors were <sup>9</sup>seriously/totally talented and they had subtitles on a screen, like in a film.
- B: Wow. Sounds mesmerising.
- A: Yeah, the whole thing was <sup>10</sup>quite/very brilliant.

- A: You won't believe it, but the wifi in the flat is down again! I'm <sup>11</sup>absolutely/perfectly sick of this.
- B: Really? I was <sup>12</sup>pretty/absolutely hopeful it would stop happening after the engineer came.
- A: It seems to happen every time I have an assignment. I'm <sup>13</sup>barely/nearly capable of meeting the deadlines as it is.
- B: Look, what we need to do is ring the helpline.
- A: Not again! You know it's <sup>14</sup>virtually/very impossible to get through at this time of day.
- B: It's worth a try though, isn't it?
- A: I'm <sup>15</sup>rather/essentially sceptical myself. Feel free to try, though.

2 Work in pairs. Practise the conversations.

3 Work in pairs. Have a conversation about one of the topics below. Use adjectives with modifiers where possible.

- a place that you think is quite amazing
- something you think is absolutely ridiculous
- something you find utterly terrifying
- a film, show or book that was deeply moving
- whether you think people should be completely open about their opinions

A: What's a place you've been that was absolutely amazing?
