Name: _____-

I.   Matching Type. Match column A to column B.

1. Love and commitment   A. They understand and appreciate the things that were done for them.

2. Communication   B. Family members are willing to make time to share meals, play games or do other activities together.

3. Respect, trust and support   C. The members will know more about each other and what he or she needs.

4. Tolerance   D. Family members are able to forgive and forget.

5. Forgive and forget   E. Family members are able to accept each other's differences.

6. Care and appreciation.   F. Every member is important and contributes in some way for the good of the family.

II.   Matching Type. Match column A to column B.

1. Kind and caring   A. He/She is someone who will not take to heart petty quarrels made in the heat of the moment.

2. Trustworthy   B. He/She is someone who helps when you are in need, with no desire of having anything done in return for the help offered.

3. Considerate   C. He/She is someone who will not make use of you, humiliate you or speak bad things about you behind your back.

4. Honest   D. He/She is someone whom you can confide to with your worries, knowing that what you said will be kept a secret.

5. Forgiving   E. He/She is someone who does not put on the pretense and will correct you when you are wrong.

6. Loyal   F. He/She is someone who is thoughtful of your feelings and will respect your opinions.

_____ is a group of people who share a close relationship with one another. Usually, they live together in the same house.

_____ have a great influence on us. They can affect how we dress, what music we listen to and how we spend our leisure time.