

Twitching tail, twitching nose,
Hazelnut between its toes.
Eyes dart to, eyes dart fro,
This little guy has far to go.
For he must find his daily bread,
A place to keep it, a cozy bed.
Store it up till one mile high,
This pile could make it to the sky.
When all is done and fall is gone,
Curl up tight and sleep 'til dawn.
Of nice spring breezes, crisp warm air,
Wake up, squirrel! and eat your lair.
Then run and romp in the rushing rain,
Before you do it all again
