Terry is a cat who lives behind the grocery market. Every Wednesday the fish truck delivers seafood to the market. The delivery man always drops fish bones and shrimp on the ground. Terry finds this to be an absolute treasure!

However, this Wednesday was different. Rascal the local tomcat came by the grocery market. Rascal is three times larger than any cat in the town. Terry knew she wouldn't get any fish bones or shrimp. She thought, "I'm going to really have to distract Rascal, or else I'll be hungry all night."

Terry realized that she could climb up to the window and knock over the wood crates. These are stacked right next to the fish truck. If Rascal was nearby, she'd be able to scare him away long enough to eat some food.

The truck rolled up. The driver got out and started unloading the boxes. As always, fish bones and shrimp fell on the ground. Terry climbed up the window behind the crates. As soon as she saw Rascal she kicked the crates. BAM! EEK! Rascal took off running with fear. Unfortunately, Terry couldn't hold on to the window, and she slipped to the ground. Her fall scared her so much that she also ran away for the night.
