

Comparison
determines the order in which the instructions in a program will run and be processed

Surface
determines the order in which the instructions in a program will run and be processed

Division
Repeats the execution of a set of instructions in a program until the program reaches a certain state

