

I = Interviewer, A = Amy, J = Joe

I: Amy, your hobby is very unusual. Tell me about it!

A: Yes, my friends and I go orienteering.

I: What do you do when you go orienteering?

A: Well, lots of people do it. It's a game. We get a map and we look for special things on it. When we find something on the map, we collect a number from that place.

I: How does the game end?

A: The game finishes when you collect all the numbers on the map.

I: Who do you go with?

A: My friends.

I: And where do you do it?

A: In the park.

I: Interesting! When do you go orienteering?

A: Every weekend. It's fun! And it's good exercise, too.

...

I: And this is Joe. He does something very unusual in his free time, too.

J: That's right! My hobby is free running.

I: What do free runners do?

J: Well, we don't walk around things. We run, jump, and climb over things in the street.

I: What things?

J: Anything! Buildings, walls, cars ...

I: Wow, that's dangerous. Why do you do it?

J: Because it's scary, but exciting.

I: What about your friend? Does she do free running, too?

J: Hannah? No she doesn't. She doesn't do sports. She sings in a rock choir.

I: That's fun!

J: I think it's boring.
