

Key Concepts in Business & Biology 1 NEW

1. An _____ is the connection between living organisms and their environment. A non-biological example is a business ecosystem with multiple stakeholders.
2. Species _____ genetically in response to changing environments. A business example is companies adapting to stay competitive in evolving markets.
3. _____ determine an organism's characteristics. In business, companies inherit organizational culture and systems that influence their operations and future.
4. _____ is mutually beneficial relationships. In business, strategic partnerships are an example where companies collaborate for mutual gain.
5. Cells _____ in multicellular organisms for specialized functions. This relates to business organizations with specialized teams for efficiency.
6. _____ maintains stable internal environments for organisms. Businesses aim for operational stability despite external fluctuations.
7. Gene _____ can lead to new traits. In business, unexpected innovations give companies unique advantages.
8. Organisms and products have _____ - introduction, growth, maturity, and decline.
9. _____ applies nature's solutions to human problems. A product example is the bullet train inspired by the kingfisher's beak.
10. _____ ecosystems are more resilient. In business, diverse teams and products make companies more adaptable. A diversified product portfolio helps during economic downturns.

Drag & Drop these words to the sentences above:

ecosystem	adapt and evolve	differentiate	Homeostasis	Diverse
Symbiosis	mutations	Genetics and inheritance	Biomimicry	life cycles