

The Big Bad Pig

By Michael Buckley

Weeks passed and one-day Carl Hambone arrived to the village, he demonstrated his strength by smashing things; Hambone told the villagers that many sacrifices must be made, but they didn't seem so convinced.	Oliver realized that his neighbors were not a good company either, they were destroying Oliver's house. So he decided to do something about it; he wanted to talk to the Wolf and convinced him to go or change his behavior. And the ugly duckling suggested to hire someone that has helped others.	Hambone trained the villagers every day, and convinced to create a machine to get rid of the wolf. They didn't know yet what it was, but they were willing to do anything to save their village.
The villagers were disappointed of the result and complained with Hambone, he only said 'sacrifices must be made'; the villagers asked Hambone to leave and worked to rebuild their village.	The Wolf came to the village and so what the villagers have done to their forest, and suddenly Hambone and the villagers turned the Equalizer, which was a big fan, and the Wolf flew away as well as the village.	Oliver decided to help his brothers, Chuck and Bruce, because they lost their houses to a Wolf; after a few days Oliver realized they were not a good company, and his luck got worse when some neighbors decided to live with them too.

Introduction:

Rising Actions:

Climax:

Falling Actions:

Resolution: