

GINGER

Emma : Hey, have you ever tried ginger before?

Liam : Yeah, I think so. Isn't it the stuff that's in gingerbread cookies?

Emma : Yep, that's right! Ginger is used in gingerbread cookies, but it's also a really cool spice with some interesting facts. Did you know it comes from the root of a plant?

Liam : Really? Like carrots and potatoes?

Emma : Yes, just like that! It's a brownish root that's a bit bumpy. People have been using it for thousands of years for cooking and for medicine.

Liam : Wow, that's old! What else can you do with ginger?

Emma : Well, it can add a nice spicy flavor to foods and drinks. Some people use it in tea to help with a sore throat or an upset tummy. It's like a natural medicine!

Liam : That's pretty cool. I didn't know ginger could do all that.

Emma : Yep, and it even has a special smell that's kinda spicy and warm. So next time you see gingerbread cookies, you'll know it's because of this special spice!
